Specialized Training in Infant Mental Health (age 0-3)	Applicants will include as many hours of training and/or continuing education as necessary to document that competencies (as specified in Competency Guidelines®) have been met. For those whose degree is in a field that is unrelated to infancy, more specialized in-service training may be required to meet the breadth and depth of the competencies. Training content will include the promotion of social-emotional development and/or the relationship-based principles of infant and early childhood mental health. Minimum of 30 clock hours required. Typically, successful IMHS applications will include 75 or more hours of specialized training unless the applicant has completed coursework specific to the Competency Guidelines®.

Infant mental health services will include parent-infant/child relationship-based therapies and practices and early relationship assessment and can include concrete assistance, advocacy, emotional support, and developmental guidance. These therapies and practices are intended to explicitly address issues related to attachment, separation, trauma, and unresolved grief and loss as they affect the attachment relationship, development, behavior, and care of the infant/child. The unresolved losses, or “ghosts,” might be from adverse childhood experiences that occurred during the caregivers’ own early childhood or may be related to more current circumstances for the infant/child and family, such as a difficult labor and delivery. Strong feelings, such as grief and loss, could also be associated with diagnosis or manifestation of a chronic illness, delay, or disability. Professionals from a variety of disciplines, not only licensed mental health professionals, may earn Endorsement® if they have performed the work that meets these criteria. However, the applicant must have received the training necessary to provide this level of treatment/intervention AND must receive reflective supervision/consultation from an IMHS or IMHM-C about the treatment/intervention. In some cases, one year of a supervised graduate internship with direct infant mental health practice experience as described above may be counted toward the two years of paid work experience requirement if the supervisor of the internship is an endorsed professional (IMHM or IMHS). Applicants must submit a description of the internship for application reviewers’ consideration.
